

Thanks to the fact that we live in a democracy, we're free to choose who has access to some of our personal information (bar the Patriot Act). Our telephone numbers (cell, home, etc) are our services we pay for granting us the right to choose who calls us and who does not. Since the DO NOT CALL list is purely optional, multimillion dollar Marketing companies can rest assure that there will still be plenty of people who don't read the news, don't access the internet or are not aware of their Governor's attempt at privacy and will fall victim to another disrupting call right in the middle of dinner (or anything you may happen to be doing at the time of the call). Let Telemarketers pay us for our services, otherwise, my number is not coming off the list. And any attempt to obstruct this noble idea is a violation of our rights.
